Year In Review

he Center for Financial Security is an applied, multidisciplinary research center located at the University of Wisconsin-Madison that seeks to inform practitioners, policymakers, and the general public on strategies for building financial capability and security over all stages of life.

Center for Financial Security

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Dear Friends and Affiliates,

Another productive and dynamic year has passed at the Center for Financial Security. 2017 was a year characterized by growth and commitment to the Wisconsin Idea as CFS strived to broadly disseminate our research and develop practical application for Wisconsin and the world beyond. CFS faculty and staff served throughout Wisconsin, visited at least fifteen U.S. states, and traveled internationally to deliver more than fifty presentations and workshops sharing the research and resources developed by CFS. Faculty Director of the Center, J. Michael Collins, was recognized for his tremendous commitment, achievements, and contributions to the field of financial capability as a recipient of the inaugural Ketchum Prize awarded by the FINRA Investor Education Foundation.

In 2017 CFS welcomed ten new Affiliate and Fellow Researchers to our network and held an innovative Financial Technology event in the School of Human Ecology as well as a Financial Coaching Symposium with the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB). CFS was thrilled to launch the Household Finance Research Seminar Series in 2016 and kick off the second year in the fall of 2017. The seminar series allows researchers from across departments, campus, and the nation to come together on a weekly basis to promote constructive feedback on early stage household finance research and foster ideas for new work.

CFS is pleased to share our 2017 Year in Review visual guide of notable endeavors, outreach and engagement, accomplishments, and upcoming events for 2018, but we are even happier to take the opportunity to thank you for your support. Our partners, affiliates, policy and practice network, and community members not only make our work possible, but make our efforts richer, our resources more relevant, and our research more rigorous.

CFS appreciates gifts to support the vital research of the Center for Financial Security. Please click on the gift icon to give through the University of Wisconsin Foundation:

From all of us at the Center for Financial Security, we look forward to working with you in the coming year and wish you and yours a happy and healthy 2018!
